

For Good* Wins

Magazine Honored with Two National Communication Awards

Congratulations to St. John's Lutheran and Capitol Hill Lutheran congregations on producing and supporting a nationally recognized, award-winning magazine!

The national Religion Communicators Council recognized For Good magazine with two 2009 DeRose-Hinkhouse Awards. The Fall/Winter 2008 issue was selected for the Award of Excellence in a Local or Regional Magazine. Additionally, Micholyn Fajen was awarded the Certificate of Merit in a Magazine Article for her feature in the same issue, "All Are Welcome."

"We've felt strongly, in the five years we've published this magazine, that we have something pretty special here. It is an honor to know the judges—the journalism professors of Eastern Illinois University—think so, too," says Fajen, For Good editor. "I, along with creative director, Julie West and co-editor, Jean LemMon, am so grateful for the support of our church councils and congregations. But now we have a new standard by which to produce this biannual publication and we need more hands."
